Pink Season is the second studio album by Japanese entertainer and musician George Miller, later known as 'Joji' and the second album to be released under the former stage name and alter-ego Pink Guy. It was released on 4 January 2017.[1] It features 35 songs ranging from various points in his YouTube career and is primarily produced by Miller himself. It peaked at number 70 on the Billboard 200.[2] Background and release

George "Joji" Miller, the creator and player of Filthy Frank, has always loved to create music as he elaborates in an interview with Pigeons and Planes.[3] In 2011, Miller created a channel centered around his persona "Filthy Frank" to promote his music. As his channel grew, he created more bizarre characters, the most notable of which being Pink Guy, an aply named character consisting of Miller in a pink body suit. Periodically, Miller would upload music videos to his channel which were equally diverse in musical design and visuals, ranging from Pink Guy making rice balls to his adoration of hentai. In 2014, he released a collection of a select number of songs, titled Pink Guy (stylized in all caps), compiled under the pseudonym that most relates to the tone of the music.[4] After the release, Miller went back to his normal uploading schedule. Throughout mid-2016, he hinted at the release of Pink Season in several of his videos. He continued to hype up his album by promoting on Twitter up until its release.[5] The streaming service version of Hand On My Gat ends at 1:32 followed by minutes of silence until at the very end a unreleased snippet from his Joji moniker plays. After the album was released, a new music video was released for the song "Nickelodeon Girls" on 13 March 2017.[6] A remix EP titled Pink Season: The Prophecy was released on 24 May 2017, featuring remixes by Borgore, Getter, Tasty Treat and Axel Boy.[7] Track listing

Notes
On Filthy Frank's YouTube upload of the album, "Another Earth" was originally subtitled "Young Thug Diss".[13] For the tracks "Hand on My Gat", "I Do It for My Hood" and "I Have A Gun", Miller uses the pseudonym Politkiz.[14] an underground internet rapper character on the Filthy Frank Show.[15] After the album's initial release, the third track, "White Is Right", was removed from the iTunes Store, Google Play and Spotify. The original video for the song on YouTube has also been unlisted.[16][17][18][19] No official reason has been given for this removal, though it can be assumed it was due to the song's lyrical content. A year after the album's release, in early January 2018, the track "Dog Festival Directions" was removed from the iTunes Store, Google Play, Spotify and YouTube.[20][16][17][18] No official reason has been given for this removal; however, this came after Miller announced retiring from comedy to pursue his music career.[21] The track "We Fall Again", used to be called "wefflag.n.ii 5".[22] which got later renamed for the album.

I have spent the past month compiling all of George Miller's publicly available works into an easy download for your listening pleasure.I really enjoy his music and wanted to collect it all into one place so that everyone can hear the incredible range of his musical talents.I couldn't find anything online that was complete, the way I'd like it to be. So as I said I spent a large amount of time gathering everything I could find without getting too creepy, then catalogued it all into three albums with complete metadata.Here is how the albums are organised.Pink Guy (Ultimate Extended)Disc 1 is the standard Bandcamp release with no alterations Disc 2 is almost all of his content excluding the contents of Disc 1 & 3 in chronological order. There are all from his two youtube channels, Dizasta Music and TVFilthyFrank. The description metadata has the upload date attached.Disc 3 is any tracks I felt didn't fit the general musical nature of Disc 2 (eg. spoken tracks), didn't fit under the Pink Guy alias (i.e. Lil D, MC George) or I wasn't certain when they were first uploaded.Pink Season (Extended)Disc 1 is the standard Pink Season release with some key alterations. I changed the name of a couple of songs to include what they used to be called when they were first released (eg. wefflag.n.ii, Trap Dumplings). I also replaced a couple of the Album versions with the Youtube versions as the album version took out the samples that he used at the beginning of songs like "onigiri" which I really think made the song better.Disc 2 is music he's released post Pink Season or which didn't make it onto the album like " Hood Rich",Chloe Burbank Vol. 1 (Extended)Disc 1 is all the tracks on his publicly available Joji/Chloe Burbank soundcloud.Disc 2 is some lost/unreleased Joji tracks I found scattered around the internet.I will be updating this album when any new music comes out, so check back every now and then :)RIGHT CLICK to download as ZIP either the lossless m4a version or the compressed MP3 version. MgFyEKKb1C[UziugRqnmDdovGh]GThQlf you use iTunes, I suggest you drag the entire m4a folder to the iTunes window and it will import all with correct metadata. Make sure to delete any of your own Pink Guy/Joji stuff so you don't get any duplicates.I endeavor to make this the best compilation available on the internet and to do that I need your help.Simply PM me or drop a comment and I'll be more than happy to correct it and reupload the album.Thank you all for reading and I hope you enjoy!EDIT: People are pointing out that someone else had already done a similar thing just a bit before I posted.I want to emphasise that mine and theirs have completely different goals. I intentionally didn't include any compilations, remixes, extended versions or fan remakes in here to keep it as pure as possible.EDIT 5/Aug/2017:I've finally gotten around to updating this thing, and now the mega link contains all the new Pink Guy songs including the new Joji and Pink Prophecy tracks. I have also tweaked a couple of the older tracks as well, nothing major. ENJOY!Page 222.36 comments
