Aim at taste. This piece first ran in December 2009 and since then, seemed to be one of the most refined soundtrack posts. We hope that you could be awake for some holidays for the holidays that you didn't buy you able to help you (well, for the most part, anyway). Written by John Hughes and directed by Jeremiah S. Chechik (Benny & Joon), the third episode of holiday movies takes us a à ¢ â, ¬ Å "Fun, old Christmas style for the family" with the Griswolds: Clark (Chevy Chase), Ellen (Beverly DÃ ¢ â, ¬ â "¢ Angelo), Rusty (Johnny Galecki) and Audrey (Juliette Lewis). While we count the days up to Christmas, we witness the family to enter a ridiculous situation after another As they try to celebrate the holiday. Clark desperately wants to host the perfect Christmas at his house, and goes to great lengths to do so. First, drag his wife and children towards the center of the forest to find the perfect Christmas tree, almost Getting them all killed in the process. Then he spent hours by covering the exterior of the house with Christmas was not foreseen as Clark had planned. Soon, the extended family arrives à ¢ â, ¬ "Parents of Clark, Clark Sr. (John Randolph) and Nora (Diane Ladd), and Mom and Dad of Ellen, Art (eg Marshall) and Frances (Doris Roberts) â, - "Things go quickly south once his cousin-in-law redneck, Eddie (Randy Quaid), arrives unexpectedly in a dilapidated camper with his wife, Catherine (Miriam Floyd); their two younger children, Rocky (Burger Cody) and Ruby Sue (Ellen Hamilton Latzen); Latzen); Their disgusting dog, snot. Since they cannot say no to the family, Clark and Ellen agree to host Eddie, Catherine, and their hatching for the holidays. While the countdown for Christmas continues, things around the Griswold House go for bad to the worst. Everyone complains of how crowded the house has become; Clark is stressed that he can afford the secret Christmas gift that was purchased for his family - a swimming pool he intends to pay with his Christmas bonus, who has not yet arrived; And Ellen and discovers that Eddie and Catherine cannot afford to buy their children's gifts, forcing in Clark to offer help that he can't afford. On Christmas Eve, Uncle Lewis (William Hickey) and Aunt Betheny (Mae Questel) arrive for dinner with a special gift for GRISWOLDS: Bethany cat, which was addressed with thoughts. While the evening is wearing, the montano holiday disasters: First, Catherine defines Turkey, which fundamentally ruins the entire dinner. Subsequently, the Aunt Bethany cat is electrocuted when you chew through a thread of Christmas lights. And Uncle Lewis burns Clark's beloved Christmas tree, which Clark replaces cutting a tree from his backyard. Unfortunately, the tree is home to a squirrel that ends up terroring the Griswolds. Just like Clark thinks that night can't get worse, a delivery comes from the company of him. Everyone expects to be his Christmas bonus, but instead of a check, Clark discovers that he was enrolled in the club à ¢ â, ¬ Ã Å "Jelly of the month", who proposes him to say anger to the family that if they want to take it The perfect gift should bring your boss back to the house so that Clark can tell him what there is a idiot to give a bonus so shit. Of course, the cousin Eddie takes seriously Clark and kidnapped the head, Mr. Shirley (Brian Doyle-Murray). After meeting the Griswolds and listening to their history - and face the police, who were called by Mrs. Shirley - Mr. Shirley apologizes to suspend his employee bonuses. He agrees to give Clark Its bonus plus 20 percent. While the GRISWOLDS celebrate their inverted luck, children think of seeing Santa's sleigh through the night sky. The cigar of Uncle Lewis then turns on the gas perfect Christmas after all. The Christmas holidays turned out to be a huge holiday success in 1989, debuting at number one and finally blocking $ 71 million. Through video and DVDs and planes for annual holidays on different networks, it has become a modern classic. In fact, as I write this, it is shown on AMC. As for the soundtrack, in reality there was no one at the time of release of the film. But to celebrate the Christmas holidays, the tenth anniversary, a limited number of CDS soundtrack pressed and sold at six magical mountains flags, where scenes from the film and portions of the Angelo Score Badalamenti (yes, that Angelo Badalamamenti). The soundtrack album also has bonus tracks, including the theme song for the first two holiday movies, Lindsey Buckinghamà ¢ â,¬ ~ à ¢ â,¬ Å "Holiday Roadà ¢ â,¬; Another tuning of Buckingham that appears on the first vacation, Ã ¢ â,¬ Å § a,¬ Å § a, \tilde{A} ¢ \hat{a} , ¬ Å" Holiday Road \tilde{A} ¢ \hat{a} , ¬ that the credits of the cd to bizkit of limitations but are apparently from a band called Left; the audio of the of the film; And the radio version of Mavis Staples "Holidays in Lhristmas. \tilde{A} , \tilde{A} " are not included the traces of Buckingham and because I love you, are not included that terrible coverage of \tilde{A} ¢ \hat{a} , ¬ Å "Holiday Road. à ¢ â,¬ I hope you enjoyed the soundtrack this week week In the words of Clark Griswold, Å ¢ â,¬ Å "NERRY CHRISTMAS.
