I wondered what I would do. Maybe it removes me the shoes and hit it, But then I would think if I did that there would be no difference between me and a terrorist. It would be better to beged, "OK, scrap, but first listen to me. What you are doing is wrong. I'm not against you personally, I just want every girl going to school. »Ã ã, Ã," the struggle can ever "anyone my father has always been a daydreamer, and sometimes I would imagine that on the way a terrorist could jump out and shoot myself in those steps. I wondered what I would do. Maybe he takes off his shoes and hit him, but then I would be better to beged, "OK, scrap, but first listen to me. What you are doing is wrong. I'm not against you personally, I just want every girl going to school. »Â, A « The struggle can never succeed without women who participate side by side with men. There is a third power stronger than both of women. »Â « Sit down a chair and read my books with all my friends at school is my right. To see every and every human being with a smile of happiness is my desire. I am Malala. My world has changed but I don't have. "" I couldn't understand what the Taliban were looking for. "They are abusing our religion," she said in the interviews. "How will Islam accepted if I put a gun to your head and I say that Islam is the true religion?" If they want every person in the world both Muslim, why don't Muslim good ones manifest themselves before? \tilde{A} , $\hat{a} \in ce \hat{a} \in m$ «It was a girl in a land where the rifles are shot in the celebration of a son, while the daughters are hidden behind a tent, their role in life simply to prepare food and give light i children. \hat{A} »I am Malala: like a girl got up for education and changed the world Chronicles The OldoeVeous terrorist attack and inspiring recovery of a stacked young woman who, in her own words, A ¢ â, ¬ Å" Left [La His] home for school and has never returned ... (Yosafzai). The audible audio version opens with a touching epilogue read by Malala itself, one in which complains about the loss of his home, the community and other small joys: A ¢ â, ¬ "Now, every morning when I open the eyes, for a long time to see my old room full of my things, my clothes on the shelves - Yousafzai). It also plays what reminds the day of the day the Taliban tried to assassinate his then turn things with An expression of hope and a reason for peace. The story is divided into five parts that work more like the pieces of the puzzle of demarcations in a linear and chronological narrative. Malala begins with a short but detailed story of Pakistan, then Discuss some of the relative Institute. Malala and the evolution of his father as a supporter of education. We then enter the invasion of Taliban and Smant Systematic wat element. Through the inornive eyes of Malala, we look imprisoned while schools are bombarded and / or ordered closed, the police is killed / o settlement from the force, Swat is teared by Taliban and military checkpoints, water and power plants are disabled, women and girls are murdered and the beauty of the swat is reduced to a dark, silent, silent army and the government of the Pakistani feldless would not do anything to help his people; The malala speculates that time. Meanwhile, the increasing resentment of the Pakistani government, the theories of post 911 conspiracy and anti-American feelings have caused drone attacks (these attacks have led to innumerable Pakistani victims, many of which were children) eventually hardening the people of the valley of Swat against Western ideas, ideal and pastimes. The anger with and resentment of American and Pakistani governments would manifest the form of a continuously growing crowd of Jihadis of a new talibs link. Over time, the Taliban Night Radio show has continued to impress the deviation (spiritual and mortal) dangers from the religious precepts of Taliban and cultural mores. The citizens had gladly destroying and / or abandoning their televisions, avoiding music and dancing, burning their DVDs and CDs and pulling their daughters out of school in fear that the earthquake of this 2008 (has been said repeatedly by the Taliban that This had been a punishment for their sinus sé. Anyone being in violation of or in opposition to the Taliban has become a very dead resident what many would have arrived $\hat{a} \in$
