Applicable products ¼ ¼ : Tablet ¼ ¼ , Smartphone It is recommended to check whether the password has been changed by you or someone else. If your password contains different types of characters, be sure to enter the correct password, including the correct capital letters and symbols such as underscores. If you notice that the required password length or type has changed on the lock screen, or the screen is locked even though you haven't set a password, you may have turned on PrivateSpace. Try the PrivateSpace password to access your device. If you have forgotten your password, please read I forgot my private room password. Or restart your phone/tablet. Your phone/tablet will automatically access MainSpace after reboot. If you are logged in to a user account, you cannot use the owner's password to unlock the lock screen. Switch back to the owner account and try unlocking again. To switch between accounts, tap on your profile pictures (as shown in the image below) or restart your phone/tablet. Your phone/tablet will automatically access MainSpace after reboot. If you have forgotten your phone/tablet password and want to unlock it, you will need to factory reset your device. However, all data on your phone/tablet will be deleted and cannot be recovered. It's a good idea to check if you've backed up your phone/tablet data to the cloud or some other way. It is also a good idea to check whether the password has been changed by you or by someone else. If you still forgot your password, reset your device to factory settings as follows: Turn off your phone/tablet and disconnect the USB cable if connected. Press and hold the power and volume up buttons. When the phone/tablet vibrates, hold the buttons for 5 seconds until the phone/tablet enters recovery mode. Boot into recovery on phones like Mate 30 Pro, Mate 30 RS and Mate 30E Pro physical volume buttons, press the power button five times in a row when the phone vibrates after turning on. Operations vary depending on the device model. You can also try the following: press and hold the power button for about 5 seconds while the device is turned off. If the device vibrates when turned on, press and hold the volume up button for about 2 seconds (without releasing the power button). Then the screen will turn off for about 10 seconds and the device will enter recovery mode. Press the volume up and down keys to select Wipe data, then press the power key to confirm. (For products that support the touchscreen in recovery mode, you can tap the screen to perform these actions.) Press the volume up and down keys to select the option to reset your device, then press the on/off button to confirm. Some device models require you to re-enter "Yes" for confirmation before restoring the device to factory settings. Follow the on-screen instructions to complete the process. After the reset, your device will return to the recovery screen. Click the appropriate button to restart your device. If you see an activation screen after your device restarts, you've turned on Find My Device. You can access the system by entering your HUAWEI ID password. If you forgot your HUAWEI account password, visit the password reset page. If your HUAWEI account has been deleted, you will no longer be able to log in to this HUAWEI account and use your phone/tablet under this account again as all your data has been deleted and cannot be recovered. In this case, we recommend that you bring your device and proof of purchase to an authorized Huawei customer service center for assistance. If you're signed in to your Google account, you'll be asked to confirm your account password when you restart your device after a factory reset. Enter the access password/camera. If you've forgotten your Google Account password, follow the on-screen instructions to recover your Google Account details. Data on Huawei phones/tablets is encrypted with a lock screen password using irreversible algorithms to keep your privacy safe. Once you set a password for your phone/tablet, all data on it will be encrypted for protection. Huawei phones/tablets do not have an automatic password setting or password change function. To protect user privacy and information security, Huawei, even as a device supplier, cannot and will not decrypt user passwords in any way. We apologize for the inconvenience caused. If the problem persists, back up your data and take your device and proof of purchase to a Huawei Authorized Customer Service Center for assistance.
